

“The Advocate for Custodian addressed an urgent letter to Mehtas in continuation of its letter dated 28.04.2003 stating that it was inadvertently conveyed that you may submit offers in regard to sale of ATL. It was clarified that pursuant to order dated 17.01.2003 on the Report of the Custodian the Hon’ble Judge had directed that when any Public Notice is issued by the Custodian for sale of bulk shares the notified party should approach the Custodian with their offer, so that at the time of the confirmation of sale in Court, no problem arises. Therefore, no offers, if any brought in Court on the said date will be considered.”

Misc. Application No. 64 of 1998
The Custodian
V/s Union of India

This is in furtherance to our letter dated 28th April 2003, wherein it was inadvertently mentioned in the last paragraph that you may submit offers if any, that you may have received independently for the sale of the shares belonging to you.

We hereby clarify now that pursuant to the order dated 17th January, 2003 passed by His Lordship Mr. Justice A.B. Palkar on the report of the Custodian, His Lordship had directed that when any Public Notice is issued by the Custodian for the sale of bulk shares the notified party should approach the Custodian with their offer, so that at the time of the confirmation of sale in Court, no problem arises.

Therefore no offers, if any brought by you in Court on the said date will be considered.

Yours truly,
